

Access to Court Case Files:

1. All court files are open to the public unless otherwise determined by the courts to have limited or no access to the public.
2. Copies from files may be obtained at the Circuit Clerk's office at a cost of 10 cents per page. (Currently we do not charge for redaction of copies.)
3. All domestic relations filings prior to August 28, 2009 are only available to the parties, an attorney of record, and the Family Support Division. Others may have access by order of the court for good cause only.
4. Temporary or final judgments of domestic relation cases filed prior to August 28, 2009 will be open to the public upon redaction of the social security numbers by the clerk.
5. To receive un-redacted copies of documents from a confidential domestic relation's case you must provide proof that you are one of the parties or an attorney of record. In person a valid photo ID, or by mail, a clear copy of your valid photo ID will suffice.
